

A map of Otsego County, New York, showing its boundaries with neighboring counties: Montgomery to the north, Schenectady to the northeast, Albany to the east, Greene to the south, and Delaware to the southwest. The county is divided into several towns by dashed lines. A red rectangular box in the northwest corner of the county highlights a specific area, labeled "Area Mapped". Within this box, a small, irregularly shaped area is outlined in red, representing the location of the Otsego County Jail.
